JAMES LEWIS ANDERSON, Trustee.

On account of an outbreak of smallpox in the northern section of Frederick county, all school children of Winchester have been vaccinated during the past few days, not that there is any disease in the city, but as a precautionary measure. All the doctors were kept busy day and night Friday and Saturday inoculating boys and girls with the virus which is supposed to prevent contagious diseases.

What has become of Kenniston Kerns, member of a well known family of Frederick county, is causing much alarm and worry among members of his family. He was last seen in the city last fall, and upon completing his work announced his intention of returning home. That was the last seen of him, and although strict search has been made all over this section of the country, he cannot be found. Relatives fear some calamity has overtaken him.

Just as soon as J. K. Kibler, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employee of Strasburg Junction, was able to leave the Winchester Memorial Hospital, where he had been under medical treatment, he hurried home, and the following day drove to Strasburg, where his marriage to Miss Ada Garrett took place, the ceremony being performed at the Lutheran Church parsonage by Dr. L. L. Smith.

Joseph Chismore, a young married man of Clarke county, who was recently sent to jail here for violating the liquor law and also the local option ordinance, was taken out of jail as he left the jail with a bottle of liquor, and was taken to a saloon where he was drinking. He was taken to a saloon where he was drinking.

A strange disease resembling distemper in a severe form, but differing in some respects, has attacked a large number of horses in the northern section of Frederick county—the same section in which a number of small-pox cases have been found among people. On the farm of Alfred Wright, twenty head of horses are sick with the disease, and William Adams has eighteen horses similarly affected. Other farmers report their horses sick, and a number have died. Veterinary surgeons who have been called in have not been able to determine the exact cause of the strange disease.

A photograph of General Stonewall Jackson, taken in Winchester by the late Nathaniel Foutzahn in the winter of 1861-1862, and which has for many years been in the possession of the family of Captain Thomas K. McCaw, has been taken to Baltimore and placed on exhibition in an art store, where it is attracting a great deal of attention. Veterans who were intimately acquainted with Jackson say it is an excellent likeness of him, and it is expected that an oil painting will be made from the photograph.

Former Governor John G. Brady, of Alaska, delivered his lecture on that country before a large audience at the Hotel Hamilton on Friday evening. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Winchester Memorial Hospital Association. The entire student bodies and members of the faculties of Fort Loudoun Seminary and the Shenandoah Valley Military Academy were in the audience.

President William H. Baker, the wealthy chocolate manufacturer and president of the Winchester City Council, has presented the Friendship Fire company, of this city, with a handsome set of black hose, for their use in pulling the fire-fighting apparatus. The horses cost about $500.

W. E. Butts, a freight brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was taken to a hospital near Shenandoah Junction several days ago, and was in a serious condition. His head was badly cut and he sustained internal injuries by falling.

John Stephenson, a well-known Frederick county farmer who died at his home in Winchester this week, was in many of the hardest fought battles of the Civil War, including Gettysburg, and was a member of the Fifteenth Virginia Cavalry. He served in the army of the Potomac, and was wounded at the battle of Yellow Tavern. He was dangerously wounded, and for a long time he was in a Richmond hospital. As a member of the staff of his brother-in-law, General Charles Fields, he witnessed the surrender at Appomattox, and saw General Lee's agreement. Mr. Stephenson leaves his widow, who was formerly Miss Cornelia Mason, of Frederickburg, and one son, W. Roy Stephenson, of Winchester lawyer.

The policy of retrenchment on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has affected a number of men who have for years been employed as clerks in the freight warehouses in this section, and they have been laid off in an indefinite period, notwithstanding the fact that the tonnage is much greater than it was a year ago.

On account of lack of patronage, Dr. A. B. Tucker, formerly of New

VALLEY PREDICTS WARM CAMPAIGN

Many Candidates for Various Offices Springing Up All Over State.

WELL KNOWN MAN MISSING Friends Believe Some Calamity Has Befallen Kenniston Kerns.

Winchester, Va., January 29.—Although twelve months intervene between now and election time, candidates are springing up in many sections of the Shenandoah Valley, and with the local campaigns and the four-cornered fight for the United States senatorships, it begins to look as if the people will see much campaigning from now until next fall. A large number of small offices are to be filled in the counties, and according to the present outlook none will go begging.

There is much discussion among the Republicans all over the seventh Congressional District, due principally to the fact that Federal pie has not been distributed according to the wishes of some of the leaders, but the Democrats, as a rule, are well organized and harmonious.
